

Mowi Iberia

History

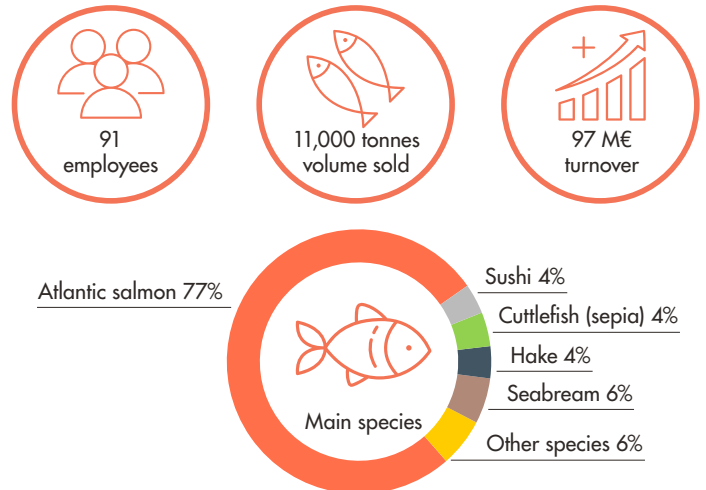

In 2018, Mowi signed a partnership agreement with Scanfisk, a Spanish seafood company in Zaragoza with a strong whitefish supply. The objective of this partnership was to expand business operations and sales volumes in the Iberian retail and foodservice markets. This partnership enabled Mowi to produce pre-packed and value-added fish and seafood products – both fresh and frozen – in Spain for sales to retail and foodservice customers.

Mowi Iberia started its own production and sales in Zaragoza, Spain from December 2018. The strategic location of the facility in Zaragoza enables Mowi to ship fresh fish to any location in Spain and Portugal in less than 24 hours. A wide range of salmon and other fish and seafood species passes various stages in the production process in order to be prepared for packaging and distribution.

This versatile processing unit has access to top-quality sources of raw material, which is processed and packed in MAP, skin pack or bulk. The resulting products find their way to Iberian retail and foodservice channels under private label and Mowi's own OLAV's brand.

Mowi Iberia also has a sales office in Madrid, which is both selling fresh pre-packed seafood products to retail and foodservice and trading Atlantic salmon to wholesale customers and processors.

Early August 2020 Mowi Iberia started the production of fresh sushi in its brand new sushi plant in Zaragoza. With the start-up of the new sushi plant, Mowi Iberia enters the market of Ready-to-Eat products. Next to the Iberian retail market, also customers in the southern part of France can be delivered from this new sushi plant. The sushi plant is equipped with the latest state-of-the-art machinery and installations to produce sushi with the highest possible level of automation. The manual work is limited to the assembly of the various sushi bites into their final MAP packaging.
